That's a wrap!

Follow Your Art Jr completes another successful run

Twenty student artists spent July learning how to hone their talents and work on their college entrance portfolios. They showed off what they learned and celebrated with friends and family at the Aug. 31 reception held in their honor at the Goodyear Branch Library.

If you missed the reception, you can still see their artwork. It will be on display at the library (located on Van Buren, west of Litchfield Rd) through the end of the month.

Our thanks to Gayle Glenn for leading this summer's program and the many Catitude artists who shared their time and talent with our students. And, for those of you who sponsored our students – "THANK YOU!"

Creative Aging: art and socialization for seniors

We're pleased to have partnered with the city of Goodyear to offer Creative Aging art workshops for the community's seniors. Catitude provides the instructors (Gayle Glenn and Debra Goley) and materials and the city provides the funds, the space and the participants.

The sessions are four weeks long. We've completed 20-person workshops in July and August. We have another one scheduled for October and registration is already full.

Check out what our August artists created under Deb Goley's leadership during the August session.

Shuttered: No 2017-2018 season for gallery

Despite our best efforts, we haven't found a new home for the gallery. We're disappointed about this but Catitude isn't going away, we're just shifting our focus.

For now, we'll focus on our programs. Specifically, we'll continue developing our mural artist mentoring program as well as partnering with the local communities to offer more Creative Aging programs.

We'll also keep you informed on what our artists are up to and where you can find them and their work. (And if you want a mural for your home or business, email Director Bonnie at bmolewis61@gmail.com.)

For now, we'll keep looking for a gallery to house our artists' work and as soon as we find it, we'll let you know. Until then, please stay in touch with us on our Facebook page.

As a 501c3 non-profit, we rely on – and greatly appreciate – community, civic and corporate contributions and support.

We couldn't do it without these great supporters.

Thank you!
